Lamborghini at the New York Auto Show

The New York Auto Show confirmed its place as a very important U.S. and International Auto Show once again this year. Although the new Lamborghini Gallardo LP560-4 was already shown at Geneva, the New York Auto Show was the official launching site to the American market. It definitely attracted a number of spectators and everyone was excited to see the car in person.

Although this may not be the last of the Gallardo line, Stephan Winkleman, President and Chief Executive of Automobili Lamborghini, was quoted as saying "the LP-560-4 will complete this success story. It will outclass its predecessor in every aspect — its dynamics are distinctly breathtaking and its design sets new standards." There is no arguing the fact that the Gallardo is the best selling Lamborghini model to date, with over 7,100 units sold.

To top off the Lamborghini excitement surrounding the Auto Show, the LP640 that appears in the upcoming Batman movie, The Dark Knight, was on display at the Pre-Auto Show Gala. Several spectators were looking forward to setting eyes on the car in person — especially after the Murcielago's cameo in the previous Batman movie, Batman Begins. Popular toy maker Mattel even has plans to make a model version of the Batman's Lamborghini from the new Batman movie, which is due in theaters July 18th!

Because the new Gallardo LP560-4 was the talk of the entire show (and still is within the automotive community, even months after the debut), some technical specifications are especially appropriate to detail:

Lamborghini Dallas Track Event & Concorso

The 5th annual Texas Track & Concorso event on April 5th was blessed with a day of beautiful day of Texas spring weather: bright and sunny, clear skies, and a nice warm temperature. Over fifty-one participants were on hand for the track event, with over forty Lamborghinis in attendance! In addition to the event participants, there was a great showing of Lamborghini enthusiasts and car lovers, as well. Since the inception of the Dallas Track Event, attendance has grown from 150 to over 500 visitors this year!

Apex Driving Academy was again on hand for another great track event held at MotorSport Ranch. Drivers of all skill levels had the opportunity to participate in the event, with drivers being able to choose from three designed programs. The Novice program offered classroom instruction on safe driving techniques throughout the day, track drills for basic skills, track time with professional drivers, and sessions at speed. Intermediate and advanced drivers were given the opportunity to participate, but also had designated track time for drivers for the respective groups.

MotorSport Ranch, established in 1996, has proven to be a pioneer in the concept of a 'country club for motoring enthusiasts'. The Ranch, which is centered on two purpose-built road racing courses (a 1.7 mile and a 1.3 mile circuit), offers members a chance to satisfy their "need for speed". The Ranch offers both convenience and accessibility for those who treat performance driving as a sport — or a hobby. In addition to participants who brought their own vehicles, Lamborghini Dallas brought three factory Gallardos to the event for demonstration to current and future Lamborghini owners.

Dear Lamborghini Owner,

The Midwest is beginning to thaw and warm weather days are finally in sight! It's a perfect time to get your car out of winter storage and get ready for the upcoming driving season. There are already several events lined up, offering a number of events to enjoy your cars this year – don't miss out! Please take a moment to check out the Lamborghini event dates (and photos from prior events) on Lamborghini Troy's website, the Lamborghini Club's website, or by giving me a call.

The two highlighted events this year are Italian Cars at Pocono and the Monterey weekend event. Among other special things, the Pocono event will celebrate the 40th anniversary of the Islero. On the Sunday of the Monterey weekend, the Pebble Beach Concours will have Lamborghini as a featured marquee - something very special for the brand. Both events feature a corporate-organized "Running of the Bulls" leading up to the opening day activities. Running of the Bulls has been a tremendously successful event, selling out to maximum capacity every time – even being featured on "Rides" on TLC. For more information on these two special events, please contact me for full details.

To prepare for the warm weather, I have filled the showroom with Spyders and Roadsters, so don't hesitate to stop into the dealership and take a look around. I would be more than happy to give you a feel for the new Lamborghini products in a demonstration vehicle!

I look forward to seeing you this year; Happy Cruising!

Powered by a 5.2 liter V10 engine that produces 552 horsepower (an increase of 40 horsepower over the previous Gallardo!)

44 pounds has been taken from the weight of the Gallardo in this model (a real compliment to that power!)

The new Gallardo sprints from 0-62 in just 3.7 seconds, with a top speed of 201mph

Fuel consumption and CO2 emissions have been reduced by 18% (although the new Gallardo cannot be considered 'green' yet, it is definitely a step in the right direction!)

The Lamborghini Gallardo LP560-4 with E-gear gets an average fuel-economy of 17mpg, with a manual transmission fuel-economy is reduced to 16mpg

A formal dinner, with all proceeds going directly to the East Side House Settlement, was held after visitors had a chance to preview the show floor. The guest of honor? No other than the Lamborghini LP 560-4. Just before dessert, the raging bull was auctioned by Richard Brierley of Christie's, for $340,000. The bidding was fast and furious – jumping from $100,000 to $200,000 in less time than it takes the car to go from 0 to 60mph (under 4 seconds)! The highly-anticipated Lamborghini was not alone; several other items were also auctioned on behalf of the charity. The East Side House Settlement, founded in 1891, is based in The Bronx and provides outreach to students who might otherwise be lost in the city's school system. The charity has achieved great success putting these at-risk youth on the right academic track, helping them to gain admission to—and tuition for—some of the nation's top universities. Needless to say, $340,000 will buy at least a year or two at Harvard these days!

Lamborghini Dallas Track Day & Concorso

As part of the event, too, a Concorso was organized by a car club from the Dallas/Fort Worth area. The Concorso was free to all visitors and open to public viewing. In true consorso fashion, trophies were awarded for a number of categories; the winners are:

Best Contemporary (2000 - present)

1st - John Sawyer - 2006 Saleen S7

2nd - Ajai Cadembi - 2005 Ford GT

Best Mid-Timer (1980 - 1999)

1st - Ray Santilli - 1997 1/2 Diablo Roadster

2nd - Paul Barbaro - 1998 Diablo Roadster

Best Veteran - (1979 - Older)

1st - Jack Griffin - 1955 Porsche Continental 356

2nd - G Cowan - 1973 Ferrari 365 GTB/4

Best of Show

1st - Billy Moss - 2001 Diablo (GTR body kit)

2nd - Paul vonHeeder - 1971 Espada

People's Choice

1st - Doug Morris - 2008 LP640

2nd - Paul vonHeeder - 1968 Islero

As an additional note that only a few people at the show knew, Paul Von-Heeder's 1968 Islero #6201 was Ferruccio Lamborghini's personal car during the Islero era. It was such a pleasure to have a true representation of Lamborghini history.

Lamborghini Dallas expects to sponsor two track events - one each spring and fall, beginning next year (2009). The spring event will continue to be held at the MotorSport Ranch, while the fall event is slated to take place at Eagles Canyon Raceway. The Texas Track & Concorso has really helped in bringing Lamborghini owners together in the Dallas/Fort Worth area and expectations are high for future events.

Special thanks to ScottandTemPhotography.com for the event photos!

Festivals of Speed

The City of St. Petersburg played host to a gathering of the world's most exotic cars, motorcycles, aircraft, and watercraft on March 28th and 29th. Over 200 vehicles were on display for a large gathering of owners, enthusiasts, and the general public.

The Festivals of Speed, now in its fifth year, took place over two days full of sun and fun. The event allowed attendees to stroll the grounds while enjoying exciting culinary delights and fine wines offered by on-site cafes. This year, the event paid tribute to Lamborghini's 45th anniversary. Valentino Balboni, legendary Lamborghini test driver, came all the way from Italy to help celebrate! As a special highlight of the event on Saturday, a special champagne toast was given to help celebrate Valentino's achievements and dedication to Lamborghini. Monty Patterson of Ultimate Motorworks is quoted as saying this about Valentino and Lamborghini: "No other company, automotive or not, has someone like Valentino in their organization, he perfectly represents the company which he lives and works for; he is Lamborghini."

Friday kicked off with a Luxury Lifestyle Jet Port Reception in a massive aircraft hanger amidst a fabulous display of aircraft, automobiles, motorcycles, and race boats. Both vintage and contemporary aircraft were in attendance. Included in the group present, was a Gulf stream G5, a vintage Beech 18 with leather and alligator interior, a Piaggio P-180 painted in Ferrari motif, a Legacy, two Falcon 50's, Cessna 400, as well as, models from many other manufacturers.

Vehicles on display included a Bugatti Veyron, Audi R10, Audi R8, Ferrari Enzo, Maserati MC 12, Spyker, Rolls-Royce Drop head Coupe, and multiple other rare models. Guests enjoyed a premium brands open bar, themed food stations, silent auction benefiting All Children's Hospital, displays of luxury products, smooth jazz, and more.

Some of the entertainment for the day included: a silent auction benefiting the Children's Dream Fund of St. Petersburg, a lifestyle pavilion with displays of fine wines, cigars, jewelry, a Bang & Olufsen audio/video display, a strolling saxophonist, and free drawings to win a variety of luxury products, including a fine timepiece by Tag Heuer.

The weekend concluded on Saturday with an incredible showing of exotic cars, motorcycles, and watercraft on display throughout the grounds of North Straub Park, overlooking the turquoise waters of Tampa Bay. Models from a number of manufacturers were included: Bugatti, Rolls-Royce, Bentley, Lamborghini, Ferrari, Maserati, Porsche, Maybach, Aston-Martin, Mercedes-Benz, Jaguar, Ducati, Bimota, Donzi, and many others! Rare automobiles also had a chance to make a showing: the Bugatti Pur Sang (one of only five to be made!), the 2002 Ferrari Formula One World Champion car driven by Michael Schumacher, a 1930 Bentley 4.5 litre Vanden Plas Tourer, and two 'one-off' Ferraris in triple white.

The grand finale was an awards presentation to recognize award-winning vehicles, of which a rare Ferrari took Best of Show. To wrap things up, the VIPs boarded the 100' ft. vintage Chris Craft "Le Club Tarpon" for a sunset cruise on the bay, complete with cocktails and fine culinary treats!

We look forward to seeing you at the next event, Sunday, October 12th at the Ritz-Carlton Orlando!

The Lamborghini Las Vegas Track Event

The Lamborghini Las Vegas Track Event was a huge success and truly was a fun-filled day of events for sports car owners and enthusiasts. Saturday, March 22 was definitely a day for the memory books: more than 20 Lamborghinis drove on the track, several cars were showcased (of them, a Gallardo Spyder, Murcielago Roadster, Superleggeras, several LP 640s, and a number of other exotics), and over 300 owners and spectators were in attendance!

The day began with an early morning meeting at the dealership with a delicious, catered breakfast, compliments of Lamborghini Las Vegas and registration for all the attendees with vehicles. From the dealership, a convoy was soon en route to Pahrump – the track location.

The Spring Mountain Track boasts an exhilarating 3.1 Mile Road Course and throughout the event, beginner, intermediate and advanced run groups were driving along the track. Additionally, instructional runs were available for the beginner and intermediate groups. Demo rides with pro drivers in exotic sports cars were also offered; cars ranged from Radical SR3 and Lamborghini to Ferrari and Corvette Z06.

As a special bonus, all cars were entered in a Fan Favorite Car Contest; winning cars from the event were:

1st place: 2005 custom-painted F430 Coupe

2nd place: 2007 Lamborghini Nera

3rd place: Orange GT3 RS

A big thanks to all who attended the show; there was definitely a great turnout! Lamborghini Las Vegas is already preparing for their next hosted event – stay tuned for details!

Exotics Rally in New York

Exotics Rally did it again! Another very successful exotic car rally in the New York area with over 170 cars in attendance!

The day started at Lamborghini Long Island with registration of the participants who received gift bags, decals for their cars, T-shirts, route cards, passes for lunch and raffle tickets. TriState Lambos had a strong presence as always with over 35 Lamborghinis including Diablo's, Murcielago's, LP640s, Gallardo's, Spyder's, Superleggera's and a Countach. In addition to the Lamborghinis there were many other beautiful cars including a Ferrari Enzo, 3 Porsche Carrera GT's, 2 Noble M12's, an Ariel Atom and many more. After a hearty breakfast sponsored by Lamborghini Long Island and driver's meeting, the cars started entering the highway.

The route took the caravan through a scenic drive on twisty one-laners and wide 3 lane interstate highways. The gas stop on the bottom of Bear Mountain was a sight to be seen. It was better than a car show as they were driven in their natural habitat as they were meant to be. Needless to say the gas station and the parking lot adjacent filled up with all kinds of exotic cars very quickly making the regular Sunday morning commuters stop to check out the very rare site.

The 2nd portion of the drive went through Bear Mountain Park. When the Park Police saw the first 10-15 cars they stopped us out of boredom. After finding out that there are another 160 cars behind us and that it's a charity event, they kindly offered to escort us on our route through the park and onto the highway with no tickets issued! Hats off to the New York State Park Police!

The drive ended with a delicious lunch buffet at the Clinton Inn located in Tenafly, NJ where many prizes from the event sponsors were raffled to the participants.

Funds collected at this event were forwarded to Schneider's Children Hospital.

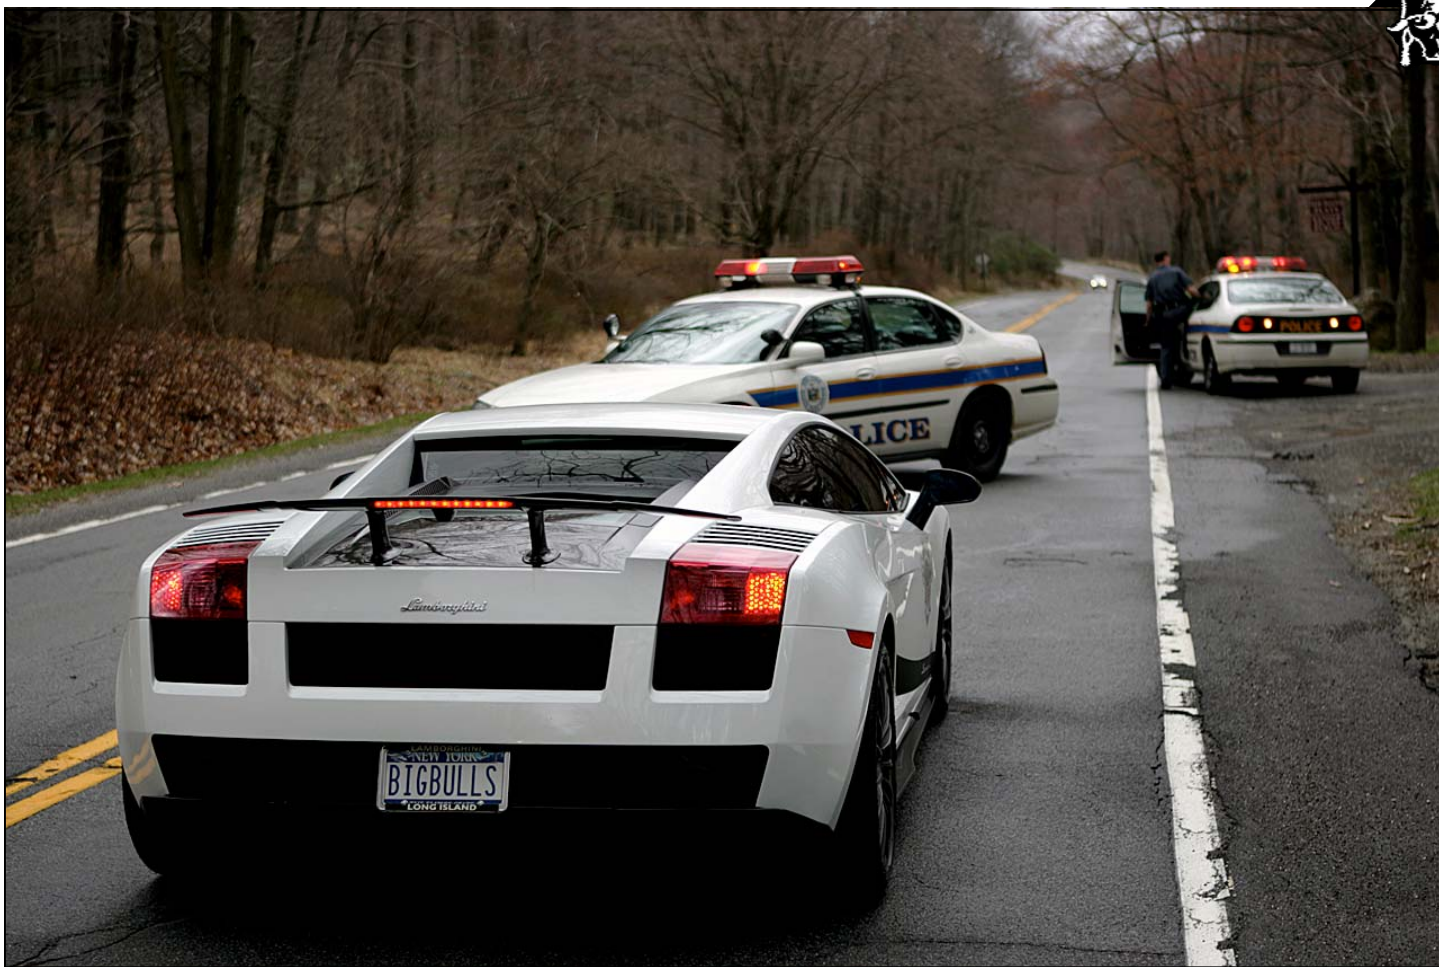

Exotics Rally is looking to continue the tradition of the charity rallies, if you're in the NY tristate area and would like to participate in future events please visit www.exoticsrally.com, which features an active forum with local Lamborghini and exotic car owners. You will find many more pictures and videos from the events as well.

LCA Chicago's Tribute to Mr. Lamborghini

The Chicago Chapter members came out in full force to recognize the man who started it all. Ferruccio Lamborghini would have celebrated his 92nd birthday on April 28th. It is for this reason that Lamborghini enthusiasts gathered together for a great luncheon at Carlucci's Restaurant in Downers Grove, Illinois. We had 22 Lamborghinis and 15 other exotics gathered in a concours atmosphere; the Chicago chapter is clearly picking up momentum from event to event!

With a threat of rain for the weekend, we got very lucky with the dry weather (The Chicago weather can be very unpredictable). We settled for temperatures in the high 40's with the sun making an occasional appearance. It was a great turnout none the less.

Earnie Stremel of Digital Retention was showcasing his unique photographic images of Lamborghini cars that his clients brought to his showroom to be photographed. We also had Kern Fisher of Sat Car Sports and Touring Car Racing on hand to do chalk board coaching for drivers who wish to improve their driving skills. April Runions, Beth Nuccio and Tim Kalvelage of Lambo Chicago did an exceptional job with the Lamborghini Boutique, registration and sponsorship. I would like to give them all a special note of thanks! Due to the great turnout and enthusiasm of the exotic car owners, you can count on a 2nd annual party next year!

LAMBORGHINI OHIO TECH TALK

Spring Lamborghini Tune-up Tips from Eric and Parker

Spring is here, and so are car cruises, shows, and track events. As you take your Lamborghini out of storage for the winter, there are some simple steps to take to ensure your automobile is in great shape for the upcoming driving season. Here is a quick list of spring maintenance suggestions from Lamborghini Ohio certified master technicians Parker Moffett and Eric Hargett. They can be reached at 800.606.9595 or techservice@lamborghiniohio.com.

BRING YOUR CAR TO TEMPERATURE - Be sure when you start your car to allow your engine time to go up to the proper temperature before shutting it off. This simple rule should be followed every time you start your car. Prematurely shutting off your car before it reaches temperature (usually 1-2 minutes) can result in excess water build up and can foul your plugs resulting in costly repairs. Take your automobile for a 10 to 15 minute drive at a normal pace when you first start it and take it out of storage.

CHANGE YOUR OIL - If you didn't change it before storage. Have your vehicle inspected if it has been awhile.

CHECK ALL FLUIDS - Coolant and brake fluid levels are of utmost importance. This should be done regularly.

CHECK TIRE PRESSURE - Be sure they are at factory recommended levels before driving long distances.

GETTING READY FOR THE TRACK? - If you are going to be taking your car to a track event, most sanctioning organizations require that your car is professionally inspected a minimum of 30 days before your event - do it! also, you should upgrade to a high temperature synthetic racing oil such as Castrol SRF - it is worth it!

**DRIVE YOUR CAR!** - This is the most important step you can do to ensure your Lamborghini will last a long time. Lamborghinis are meant to be driven, as much as possible, and driven HARD at times. Drive your high performance automobile like it is meant to be driven, and you will dramatically reduce maintenance expenses. If you choose not to drive your car much, be sure you keep a battery trickle-charger on it while in storage to keep the battery fresh and to over-inflate the tires to reduce flat spots in the rubber. But seriously...drive your car!

LAMBORGHINI ROARS INTO LONG ISLAND

On March 19, owners Gary Brustein and Michael Todd of Lamborghini Long Island, and over 2700 guests celebrated the Grand Opening of Lamborghini Long Island in their newly renovated 70,000 square foot Showroom in Jericho, New York.

It was the party of the year with excellent food, drinks, and entertainment including a 6 Piece Band, an Electric Violinist, Three Aerialists, a Fire Eater, Two Sax Players, a Hoola Hoop Act, a Contortionist and Models.

Lamborghini was represented by a stunning display of the latest models, all in White, including an LP640 Coupe & Roadster, a Gallardo Superleggera, and a Gallardo Spyder. In addition to that lineup, the entrance and the 3200 square foot cigar tent were housed with even more Lamborghinis including classic 350 and 400 GTs, Diablos, Countachs and more.

President & CEO of Lamborghini Stephan Winkelmann presented a signed Lamborghini sculpture as a gift to Gary and Michael during his official speech. "We are delighted and thrilled to have such a beautiful new home in New York" said Winkelmann, "The Long Island and Metro Markets are key growth areas for Lamborghini, and Gary and Michael have not only the vision but now the showroom to match our heritage and style."

Other special guests included Joey Kramer, Drummer of Aerosmith, Gianluca Siciliano, NE Regional Manager for Lamborghini, and Marc Hruschka, President & CEO of Chopard (pictured at right).

Treat yourself to a visit to Champion Motor Group - Lamborghini and Bentley Long Island. The state-of-the-art showroom features all the supercars of today, classic cars, muscle cars and much more.

Portland's Tribute to Ferruccio Lamborghini

On Saturday evening, April 26th, Lamborghini Portland celebrated Ferruccio Lamborghini's Birthday with an Italian-themed dinner party – and the event was a night full of conversation, laughter, and sharing a passion for the creator of the Italian exotic that shares his name.

For the 2nd Annual Birthday Celebration, 42 guests were in attendance. After a look in the parking lot, the tally was ten Lamborghinis, two Ferraris, and a variety of other luxury cars.

The invitee list was made of select group of individuals, including Lamborghini Club NorthWest Members and Lamborghini Portland's Lamborghini customers. The event was the inaugural event in the newly-completed Lamborghini Portland showroom. The "ooh's and aah's" were definitely heard among the guests.

The evening began with a constant stream of beautiful Lamborghinis arriving at the dealership, creating quite a scene in the parking lot. Pictures were snapped, mingling was beginning, and the night was starting to buzz – the appreciation for exotics was in full force.

President and Owner of Gran Prix Imports / Lamborghini Portland, Mike Warn, along with managers Ali Tarzaban and Jim Warn, helped to show off the brand new VIP Lounge and Lamborghini Boutique. As part of Gran Prix Imports, the dedicated Lamborghini Portland showroom is over 4,000 square feet which includes a 2-car Lamborghini stage, VIP Lounge, Lamborghini Boutique, and an Italian coffee bar. In addition, the plaza also contains a Service & Parts Department with seven bays and a full-service detail shop.

The dinner was delicious, the conversation was great, and friends were made – completing the recipe for an enjoyable evening. Upcoming events will offer participants another great opportunity to join in on the fun. We hope to see you there!

Twin deals reshape Europe's Auto Industry

By Richard Milne in Geneva, FT.com site

Published: March 3, 2008

Europe's car and truck industry underwent fundamental change on Monday as Porsche announced it would take over a majority stake in Volkswagen, which itself agreed to buy more than two-thirds of Scania, the Swedish truckmaker.

Porsche's move would put it in charge of a €150bn ($229bn) cars and trucks empire ranging from its own sports cars through marques such as VW, Skoda, Audi and Lamborghini to the heavy trucks of Scania and Germany's MAN.

Porsche received the go-ahead from its supervisory board to increase its stake in VW from 31 per cent to more than 50 per cent at an unscheduled meeting on Monday.

Only hours before VW, Europe's largest carmaker, had agreed to buy for €2.9bn the 31 per cent in voting rights in Scania held by the powerful Wallenberg family and its Investor investment vehicle. That brought an end to one of the longest-running and bitter takeover battles in corporate Europe recently and puts VW in the driving seat to bring together Scania and German truckmaker MAN - in which it holds 29.9 per cent - whenever it wants.

The two deals are the crowning glory in the spectacular career of Ferdinand Piëch, a controlling shareholder in Porsche and also VW and MAN's supervisory board chairman. Mr Piëch, whose grandfather Wolfgang Porsche created the VW Beetle and founded Porsche, hopes to secure his historical legacy by bringing together a company that can challenge Toyota of Japan for the title of the world's largest automotive business. "Our aim is to create one of the strongest and most innovative automobile alliances in the world, which is able to measure up to the increased international competition," said Wendelin Wiedeking, Porsche's chief executive.

Porsche's move to increase its stake in VW comes despite intense dissatisfaction in the company at the prospect of a new federal law to protect the interests of workers and Lower Saxony, the German state where VW is based and which is the carmaker's second-largest shareholder. Both Porsche and VW said they had no plans to merge themselves with their respective purchases, nor make a takeover offer to the remaining shareholders. VW also said it had no current plans either to increase its stake in MAN or to seek a merger between MAN and Scania.

Porsche has made several billion euros from share price options in VW to help finance the cost of the extra stake. It also recently drew down a €10bn credit line from its house banks.

VW will pay SKr200 a share for the Scania A-shares of the Wallenbergs, a 17 per cent premium to Friday's closing price in a move that brings its total stake to 69 per cent of the voting rights. MAN holds a further 17 per cent. The price paid by VW is about 80 per cent higher than that offered by MAN in a hostile takeover attempt it was forced to abandon last year.

Scania's A-shares rose sharply in early Stockholm trading but retreated to stand 3.8 per cent lower at SKr164 after Volkswagen said it would leave the company listed in Stockholm rather than bid for all the outstanding shares.

Bringing together MAN and Scania - plus VW's heavy trucks operations in Brazil and its vans business in Europe - would create a truck company to rival Volvo in Europe, although it would lag behind Daimler worldwide.

Mr Wiedeking has said he wants VW to rival Toyota in sales and profitability. Toyota also owns a truckmaker, Hino.

Lamborghini posts record profit for 2007

By Gilles Castonguay, Thomson Reuters

Published: April 1, 2008

MILAN, April 1 (Reuters) - Lamborghini posted a record net profit of 10.1 million euros ($15.78 million) for 2007 on Tuesday, the result of its drive to become the most profitable luxury sport car maker. A unit of Germany's Audi, it has boosted profit and sales by cutting costs, expanding its dealer network and signing licensing agreements for accessories sporting its logo of a charging bull. It is also opening retail stores, much like its rival Ferrari of the Fiat (FIA.MI: Quote, Profile, Research) group.

Chief Executive Stephan Winkelmann reiterated his forecast of a 5 percent rise in unit sales this year. "Production for this year has already been completely sold," he said in a statement distributed at a news conference.

In the first quarter, about 639 cars were sold, up 9.3 percent from the same period last year.

Winkelmann declined to provide a more detailed outlook, but said he wanted to keep the 10 percent gross profit margin that Lamborghini had reached for the first time in 2007. By comparison, Ferrari's operating profit margin excluding extraordinary items stood at 15.9 percent in 2007.

In the face of a weaker dollar against the euro, Winkelmann said Audi hedged against currency fluctuations for Lamborghini.

He has said the kind of drivers to whom Lamborghini catered did not let a slower economy stop them from buying one of its cars, which cost more than 100,000 euros. Lamborghini benefited from the weak dollar because half of the materials that it bought for the making of its sleek cars were priced in the U.S. currency, he said.

Based in the Italian town of Sant'Agata Bolognese, Lamborghini was bought by Audi in 1998.

With Porsche (PSHG_p.DE: Quote, Profile, Research) set to become majority shareholder of Audi's parent, Volkswagen (VOWG.DE: Quote, Profile, Research), Winkelmann said he did not expect the German sports car maker's presence to be felt. We think there will be no changes in the future," he said.

In 2007, Lamborghini's gross profit more than doubled to 47.1 million euros. Revenues went up 35 percent to 467 million euros.

A total of 2,406 cars were delivered, up 15.3 percent. The number is less than half of the 6,584 sold by Ferrari.

Audi reported results on March 11. It had a 12th record year in a row for vehicle sales, leading its pre-tax profit to jump by half to 2.92 billion euros. (Editing by Paul Bolding)

Lamborghini Has Stopped Gallardo Superleggera Production

Thami Masemola, www.worldcarfans.com

Published: March 27, 2008

Lamborghini We all know that Ferruccio Lamborghini was a flamboyant character, that he began the now famous brand after deep dissatisfaction in dealing with Enzo and his Ferraris. So it appears the thousands of Lambo owners are similar in character. Why the Superleggera, now stopped production, sold the most in the brightest colors of orange and yellow. The US examples we are talking about, 172 of them, were split into 46 orange, 45 yellow, 37 black, 34 grey and 10 white. One or three dealers may still have stock of the Superleggera, but don't count on it as demand was sufficiently high right from the beginning. Your best bet then would be the used car market where its value will still be substantial.

When the suits of Lambo announced the LP560-4 claps were heard to come from all and sundry, thanks to the new car's very arresting bold looks and that V10 lump of power producing some 412kW. It takes the car 3.7 seconds to reach 100km/h from zero and it goes on until the end, which is at 325km/h.

Mamma Mia! Legendary Automaker Sues Local Firm

Cassandra Kyle, The StarPhoenix (Saskatoon Canada)

Published: March 08, 2008

Italian luxury car manufacturer Automobili Lamborghini is suing a Saskatoon replica car company, claiming the local business used trademarked logos and created counterfeit imitations of one of its famous cars. North American Exotic Replica Cars Inc. (NAERC), which manufactures and distributes replica Lamborghini Diablo kit cars out of a location near Eighth Street, creates the illusion that a modified stock car is a true Lamborghini, the Italian company alleges in its statement of claim. NAERC's use of the logos and designs creates the impression that the converted cars are endorsed by, sponsored by, connected with or originated with the Sant'Agata Bologna-based company, the claim says.

"Replica cars are made all the time," said Lamborghini's Saskatoon lawyer, Richard Danyliuk. "(But) if you, for example, manufacture a replica of a 1953 Corvette you don't call it a Corvette, you call it something else. Here, the allegation is the defendants are simply calling it a Lamborghini and using the logos."

The luxury car company wants an interim and permanent injunction against NAERC, restraining it from continuing with business, as well as an accounting for all sales, revenue and profits and further unspecified damages. Danyliuk said it's not out of the ordinary for companies to defend intellectual property and brand rights. "That branding comes with significant effort and expense on the part of the owner, and certainly Lamborghini would not be at all unusual in taking steps to protect its property and protect its investment," he said.

Randy Klassen, NAERC's sole employee, said several kit car operations in the United States are close to, if not already, being sued by Lamborghini and other car companies. Lawsuits, plus a falling American dollar, are leading to a decline in the industry, he said. "We probably sell a quarter of what we used to do now, so it's slowed down a lot, and I think a lot of it had to do with when the U.S. dollar dropped right down to nothing," Klassen said.

NAERC's kits cost between $59,000 and $79,000 each, he explained. The company, which won a Good Manufacturing Practices award at the Knotts Berry Farm Kit Car Show in April 2007, according to its website, also sells individual parts for car modifications. To build a replica Lamborghini, a custom-made chassis or a Pontiac Fiero is required as a base, Klassen said.

Kits include reproductions of Lamborghini logos, Klassen confirmed. Replica vehicles are almost identical to the real deal. "For most people, no, they can't tell the difference, there's a few people who are Lamborghini enthusiasts who can spot things out, but for the most part it's pretty close," he said, adding people make the cars as a hobby.

"It's more for people wanting to show off what they built and what people's skills are. A lot of people will say, 'Oh, it's a kit car, big deal,' but the amount of time and money that goes into building these cars -- it's more for that person themselves building it." Klassen adds he doesn't expect a positive outcome for his company in court. "It's pretty much a losing battle," he said. "I'm sure we'll come to agreement, whether they want us simply to shut down and we'll call it even-type thing."

NAERC's owner, Ken Esler, did not respond to calls Friday. The kit car company has not yet filed a statement of defense. A court date has not been set.

Lambo wants less Audi

Michael Taylor, Autocar.co.uk

Published: May 02, 2008

Future Lamborghinis will use no more than 20 per cent of Audi parts in an attempt to stave off criticism that the firm's Gallardo shares too many key characteristics with the Audi R8. Company president Stephen Winkelmann has ordered a change in policy designed to maintain Lamborghini's integrity. "We have an internal rule that in future common parts will never exceed 20 per cent," he said. "In the future, we will always work together just on the hidden parts — parts that will not touch the DNA of Lamborghini. "That could include things like the electrical platforms that need high investment, or hoses and filters, but we have to safeguard against too much of it." The new Gallardo LP560/4's V10 is cast in the same factory as several Audi engines, and its block and cylinder heads are built on the same line as all of Audi's petrol engines.

Lamborghini industrial director Klaus Peter Korner said component and technology sharing with Audi was beneficial for the larger company, too. "Audi had no experience at all with a car like the Murciélago," he said. "They learn from us to use smaller tools and cheaper tools for small series cars. In this way we are working together. "We have a quality benchmark with Audi. We get the best and the fastest, and Audi gets us the cheapest." He believes that Lamborghini customers are not interested in the origin of minor components. "The customer isn't interested in Audi or VW logos on a tube, or who each clip is produced by. We use the same parts [as Audi] when it's possible and when it gives us higher quality. "That way, for the customer, it has to be an improvement when we share parts. When it's better to have a unique solution, we should do it."

Lamborghini Gallardo LP560-4

With the new Gallardo LP560-4, Lamborghini once again sets a higher standard for super sports cars. With its new engine, permanent four-wheel drive transmission and new suspension, it delivers clearly improved performance and dynamics. In parallel, its innovative design takes the classic lines unique to the Lamborghini brand one step further. Powerful elegance has never been so defined before.

Fellow Lamborghini Owner:

In this issue we are proud to present the new Lamborghini Club America website and a new section, "Lamborghini in the News". Our new website is something that came under development as a request from fellow club members. Although development is starting to wrap up, keep the suggestions coming, the site will be somewhat fluid as the needs are read and answered.

Lamborghini news is something that we believe is important to share. It is news that most owners do not hear about unless they do an in-depth search; so in this section of the newsletter we are going to select news items that would be the most interesting to fellow owners. Legal issues are usually not the most pleasant thing to hear about, but it is refreshing to see that Lamborghini is working to keep in the brand's image from being diluted by "replica Lamborghinis". Nice conversation from strangers is usually welcome by owners when they have their Lamborghini out for a drive, but the question about whether the car is real or not, often gets old. Some people think that it's a compliment to the brand, which it is in many ways; but to build a replica that looks very close to a real Lamborghini, its costs almost as much to build as a real one would in the first place, so its senseless. In another facet of protecting the brand's image, Lamborghini CEO Stephan Winkelmann has set a limit of 20% the use of parts in Lamborghinis that are common to Audi models.

Lamborghini Club America would like to acknowledge the generous sponsorship of this newsletter: Lamborghini Troy, Lamborghini Ohio, Lamborghini Boston, Lamborghini Long Island, Lamborghini Portland, Lamborghini Houston, MotorCars International, Evans Automotive, Complete Hydraulic, Dave Miller Agencies, and Premier Financial Services. Without their support, we would be unable to create this newsletter for the Lamborghini community. Please support these businesses, as they have helped to make Lamborghini ownership a better experience.

Thanks again to all of the Lamborghini owners and enthusiasts for your ongoing support of Lamborghini Club America!
